LOCAL AND PERSONAL

LIONS CELEBRATE SECOND ANNIVERSARY.

Hondo Lions and their "Lion Tamers" (blame Mr. Dugger) together with a few guests celebrated their second anniversary with a luncheon and program last Tuesday night. The leading numbers on the program were address of welcome by President Smith; greetings by District Lions Governor Wm. Dugger of San Antonio (who stated that the Lions Club is the largest service club in Texas and the second largest in the U. S.); a piano solo by Miss Elizabeth Wilson; a vocal solo by Mrs. Roland Gaines; the main address by Hon. Tom Etheridge, Jr., President of South Texas Incorporated and President of the San Antonio Real Estate Board.

Mr. Etheridge is a fluent, pleasing speaker. Here are some of the leading thoughts expressed by Mr. Etheridge:

"The banding together of the prominent men of a community is a recent venture. Former competitors have thus learned to know each other, and have found out they are human, have a heart as well as they themselves.

"The courage and toil and faith of our grandfathers who settled Texas made it possible for us to live in luxury today. We dare not complain about 'hard times' if we compare our present conditions with those of the pioneers.

"Some people forget to live while they are endeavoring to make a living.

"There is something you get in little towns you won't get in big cities.

"Here are some of the things you can do to make Hondo a better town: pave every mile of road in Medina County that is practical (the tourist crop is one of the biggest crops obtainable, not only from the money standpoint, but also from the standpoint of getting the tourists to 'discover' the fact that there is no better place in the world in which to live that Hondo and Medina County so that some will decide to make their homes with you) seek new industries for Hondo (you have the finest labor climate in the world; you have an unlimited supply of fuel right at your door; you have electric power for any purposes at reasonable rates; all you need to do is to get some 'baby' industry to come here for development and growth, or get the man or group of men who are planning such institutions to look Hondo over—but they won't come to you, you have to go after them, find them, interest them, let them know you want them).

"You have in Medina County, land that is comparable in fertility to the valley of the Nile; you have now the finest crops in your field I have ever seen. With improved methods of farming, utilizing the irrigation possibilities you could become one of the leading agricultural counties in the state. You have natural scenery that would attract tourists from afar, if you would let the world know about it.

"It is only as you perform that you will hand to your children the heritage you have received from your fathers."

Miss Helen Ann Miller was selected, by lot, to represent Hondo as Duchess at the National Sheep and Goat Raisers Convention to be held in Rock Springs in the near future.

Let the Lions who enjoyed the program roar. That wasn't an explosion you heard—that was the ROAR.

Following a physical breakdown, Mrs. Thomas Goodpasture, who with her husband has resided on their little farm near the Hondo bridge on the Highway for several years, was taken to Southwestern Asylum Saturday by order of the County Court. It is hoped that with the change and constant care of trained attendants the unfortunate lady will be restored to her normal health. Mr. and Mrs. Goodpasture have the sympathy of all who know them in this affliction. Mr. Goodpasture is very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Eckhart for their neighborly help and kindness during the illness of his wife.

MOTORCADE COMING.

June 26, 1930

Chamber of Commerce, Gentlemen:

Sometime ago we planned to put on a State Park Motorcade headed by Governor Moody and Ex-Governor Neff from Dallas and Fort Worth to the Davis and Guadalupe Mountains, attend the annual Convention of U. S. Highway No. 90 at Van Horn on July 10th. It has just developed that Dallas wants to postpone the motorcade until after the election, but we have already completed our plans and invited Governor Dillon and party from New Mexico to join us at Van Horn at the U. S. 90 Convention and the Governor has accepted so we are changing our plans and we will start the motorcade from Galveston of Monday, July 7, via Houston, San Antonio to Davis Mountains where we will arrive on the morning of the 9th.

On the morning of the 10th we will go to Van Horn where Governor Moody will meet Governor Dillon and participate in the program thence through the Guadalupe Mountains to the Carlsbad Cave where the two Governors will be the main speakers

WILLIAMSON-GRIFFIS.

A wedding of unusual interest to this community occurred at the Methodist church Tuesday evening, July 1, at 5:30 o'clock when Miss Annie Jo Williamson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. M. Williamson, became the bride of Mr. Edgar Griffis, of Nursery, Texas, with the bride's father, pastor of the local church, officiating.

A fern banked chancel enhanced by tall floor baskets of Shasta daisies formed an effective setting for the impressive nuptial ceremony. Bouquets of daisies and streamers of white satin ribbon marked places for the immediate families of the contracting parties.

Prior to the entrance of the bridal party, Miss Leora Horger, in a costume of peach chiffon, came down the middle aisle and took her place at the piano where she played "When Love Comes Calling" and "O Promise Me." Mrs. Hoyt Crimm, in orchid chiffon, also entering from the middle aisle, advanced to the piano and sang "I Love You Truly."

As a processional, Miss Horger rendered Lohengrin's Wedding March and the bridal party entered in the following order. Mrs. A. C. Williamson, matron of honor, in orchid chiffon and carrying an arm bouquet of orchid gladioli tied with pink and orchid; Mr. J. A. Carter, groomsmen; Mrs. J. A. Carter, matron of honor, in blue chiffon and carrying an arm bouquet of pink gladioli tied with pink and blue; Miss Priscilla Alger, maid of honor, in yellow chiffon and carrying yellow gladioli tied with yellow; tiny little Miss Patricia Anne Williamson, in a French frock of pink organza with touches of blue, strewing petals from an old fashioned

BRIDGE PARTY.

Mrs. Alice Reinhart was a charming hostess to the Ladies Bridge Club and a number of guests at her pleasant country home on the Seco on Thursday afternoon. The rooms were decorated with bowls of sunflowers and a yellow and white color scheme was cleverly carried out in the table appointments. Mrs. Knopp won high guest prize and Mrs. Miller high club prizes and each received Indian baskets.

Also received Indian baskets for the consolation cut. Guests were Mesdames H. Bradley, Lou Heath, Oscar Miller, Oscar Taylor, F. Schweers, Ralph Noonan, Ed Cameron, W. H. Smith, H. J. Meyer, T. B. Knopp, Russel Speece, Arthur Rothe, J. P. Ephraim, Richard Reilly and Misses Bess Brucks and Lena Reinhart.

and then we will disband the motorcade.

I am going to Houston and Galveston tomorrow to complete the necessary arrangements for the speaking program, expect to return Saturday and mail out the schedule and itinerary Monday. We hope to have it ready to give the Express in time for the Sunday issue and I will ask that each city along the line that wants the Governor to give them a speaking program kindly advise me by return mail so I can allot the necessary time to your town.

In addition to the Governor we will have Judge Ely of the Highway Commission, Senator Margie Neal and we hope to have Mrs. Lindsay, President Texas Federation Women's Clubs. However, we haven't a definite promise yet only that she is trying to arrange some previous dates so she can be with us. The first thing you want to know is how many people will be in the party. I haven't the least idea of the number but can probably give you some idea on my return to the office and if for any reason you are delayed in writing, wire if we should include your town for a speaking program.

Yours very truly,
D. E. COLP, Chairman,
Texas State Parks Board.

bouquet in the path of the bride, Miss Annie Jo Williamson, who gowned in flesh colored chiffon and wearing the same veil and orange blossoms that had been worn by her sister, Mrs. Carter, and carrying a lovely shower bouquet of white blossoms, entered on the arm of her brother, Mr. A. C. Williamson. They took their places at the chancel rail where they were met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Glen Williamson, and the impressive service was read. Miss Horger played softly "The Venetian Love Song" during the service and at the close rendered Mendelssohn's Wedding March as a processional.

A reception for the immediate families of the bride and groom was held at the parsonage after the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Griffis left for a honeymoon trip to Galveston. The bride's going away costume was of black crepe with ivory blouse.

On their return from Galveston Mr. and Mrs. Griffis will make their home at Nursery, Texas, where Mr. Griffis is engaged in the mercantile business.

The out of town guests here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Williamson and little daughter, Patricia Anne, of Sweetwater, Mr. Marcos J. Williamson of Midland, Mr. Glenn K. Williamson of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carter of Mason, Miss Annie Kerr of Talladega, Ala., Dr. and Mrs. Cleburne Williamson of Seguin, Mrs. Paul McSweeney and Paul Jr., of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Johnson of Martindale, Mrs. Annie Garrett of Lockhart, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Crimm of Round Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Kitchen of Austin, Miss Ruby Walker of Crystal City, Miss Priscilla Alger, Crystal City and Miss Flossie Herndon of Uvalde.

TEXAS AND TEXANS

TEXAS AND TEXANS.

By Will H. Mayes.
"All Texans for All Texas"

Corpus Christi Port

Corpus Christi has a strategic and enviable position as a seaport from which a large part of Texas is in position to profit. For almost half of the State and that section of the country lying in Western Arizona and Southern New Mexico it is the nearest and most logical port for domestic and foreign shipments. It is also the shortest and most direct route for water shipments into Mexico via Laredo. With port development farther down the coast, at Point Isabel, the lower Rio Grande Valley will have direct outlet to all the world for its products, and much of the business of the east coast of Mexico will pass through the lower port, but being nearer, Corpus Christi will serve an immense territory that is as yet but partially developed, but which is rapidly coming into notice because of the unusual variety of its products, both agricultural and mineral.

Gulf and West Texas Railway

Corpus Christi is already served by direct railway lines west to Laredo and northwest to San Antonio, from where lines now radiate in all directions, except to the northwest through Mason and Brady, to San Angelo, Brownwood and Abilene to other feeder connections. The northwest route from San Antonio is partially built, but there are gaps yet to be filled in to give the tonnage necessary to successful operation of the lines and to furnish transportation direct to Corpus Christi for a vast territory. The company organized to build these gaps is asking for stock subscriptions to the enterprise. San Antonio, hardly as alert to its own interests as it should be, is hesitant to subscribe its share of the stock, though its most active business men are making efforts to secure it. San Antonio, as the industrial and wholesale center, will get the greatest direct profit from this road and should hurry to do its full part to get it.

Hill Country Scenic Roads

A movement is afoot to have a scenic highway designated and built from Austin to Marble Falls and across to Kingsland, where one of the Colorado river dams is to be located. This road would connect with the north and south highway being built through that section of the Panhandle and would touch or run near many of the noted scenic spots of the "Heart of Texas" country. Another scenic route is being surveyed through the Davis Mountains, making a loop of 80 miles that begins and ends at Fort Davis, the elevation of this route being from 5,000 to 7,000 feet. It will profit Texas to assist in developing roadways to points of greatest interest, thus making it possible to see and know the many beauty spots of the State. It is only in this way that Texans will come to know and appreciate Texas as they should.

Would Keep Something Doing

The Sabinal Sentinel editor says that crops and crop prospects are good, but that the town should do something more than wait for the crops to grow. He would inject more civic pride into the people—build a hotel, erect a town hall which would be a community center, hold a community fair, make a "good-will" tour, do anything to shake off the lethargy caused by the summer heat. If the editor will keep prodding with enough energy his prods will have the desired effect after awhile. They always do.

Pease River Irrigation

The Pease River Irrigation Association has received a year's extension on its project to dam the Pease River near Crowell to store 670,000 acre feet of water to irrigate 200,000 acres and develop hydro-electric power. The dam is to be 100 feet high and 3,000 feet long. United States army engineers have been investigating the project from a flood relief standpoint and if their report is favorable Federal aid is expected.

Tomato Growing Paid

There were doubting Thomases around Navasota who contended that tomato growing couldn't be made profitable there. The local chamber of commerce thought it could, planted an acre of tomatoes to prove its contention and marketed a crop which brought $500. That kind of action, along with such results, inspires confidence.

Community Cannery

A community-owned and operated canning plant in the Pearsall school district has put up 4,000 cans of various products this season. Such plants are not expensive when the cost is distributed in a community and the canned products go far toward lowering the cost of living, but the report is that the canning plant at Pearsall is the only one of the kind in all Southwest Texas. Why not more?

Building Texas Industries

The San Marcos Record wants Texas to adopt a new slogan or battlecry: "A new industry for every Texas town." The census reports show that most Texas towns have been growing, but not fast enough to consume the farm products. Commerce alone can not support the urban population of the State. Industries are needed in every town and must be built and sustained if the towns would continue their growth.

Village Publisher Wins

Score another victory for the village publisher. Last year Warren Hunter captured three first prizes in the Texas Press Association contest for the best weekly paper and best ad composition. Now he has won honorable mention for the best newspaper production and also for the best editorial page, at the meeting of the National Editorial Association, covering the entire United States. His paper, the Herald, is published at Harper in the Hill Country of Texas, a town of 300 people, 25 miles from a railroad. It isn't your town or your location that counts: it's you.

Another Success

J. Frank Dobie grew up in the sticks of Frio County. Early in life he developed two hobbies: To get an education and to study Texas folklore. He got the education and became a professor at the University of Texas, gathering his Texas folklore material at odd times and during vacations. He wrote what he learned and acquired a forceful, interesting writing style. He got his folklore stories into the papers and magazines of the country. He became the inspiration back of the Texas Folklore Society and edited its annuals. He has been awarded a grant from the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Foundation that equals his University salary and allows him $500 for traveling expenses in order that he may continue his folklore research throughout Texas and complete the material necessary for another book. He will assemble folklore tales with attention to place, names animals, trees, mountains, flowers, fauna, flora, missions and historic characters. Frank Dobie is happy. So are his friends. Texas will profit by his learning, his hobby and his energy. We will all know more about Texas and love it the more because of his efforts.

Shipping Tomatoes

It would be interesting to know what Texas will realize from the tomato crop this year. Four shipping points in Anderson county have sent out about 245 cars, from which $122,500 has been realized. Frankston alone has marketed 150 cars. East Texas growers are making from $25 to $125 an acre profit, despite over-production. Many South Texas growers made more, some clearing as much as $200 an acre. Little is heard of "hard times" from farmers who are practicing diversification and paying enough attention to fruits, vegetables, dairying and poultry raising.

Winter Strawberries

Forty farmers at Carrizo Springs have organized the "Winter Garden Strawberry Association," and signed up to plant 300 acres in strawberries. Eight million plants will be required and are being contracted. It is expected that shipments will begin by Christmas. Strawberry growing is not an experiment at Carrizo Springs, the business having proved unusually successful in past seasons.

THURSDAY BRIDGE CLUB.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Deckert entertained the Thursday Bridge Club at the beautiful country home of the Misses Lena and Louisa Decker Thursday night.

After several exciting games of bridge Mrs. Horace Bradley won high score and was presented with a half dozen Madiera napkins; Mr. Horace Bradley won high men's score and was presented with a card table.

During the evening a buffet supper consisting of punch, chicken sandwiches, potato chips and pickles was served. Those present were Mrs. O. H. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Heath, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Noonan, Miss Louisa Decker, Miss Lena Decker, Mr. and Mrs. John Finger, Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Meyer, Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Taylor, Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Knopp, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith, Mr. Earl Starnes and the host and hostess.

WEATHER REPORT.

FIRST CARLOAD DRY PEAS SHIPPED.

Getting a late start with their thrasher last week, Driscoll & Biscoe made several shipments of dry peas by express; and got off a solid carload Saturday evening, the first full car dry threshed peas ever sent out of Devine, we suppose. Paul Lindsey is in charge of the thrasher and they hope to get out two or three cars the week now until the season closes. Several cars of the green peas were shipped two weeks ago. They are paying 4 1/2 cents as fast as they are brought in.

PROBABLY 6,000 ACRES BROOM-CORN HERE.

The broomcorn harvest begins this week, with five or six threshers running. J. C. Redus, local buyer, says there are about 6,000 acres planted, he thinks, in this section. The plant is better than usual and the price is fair, $100 to $115 per ton. J. C. makes around half a ton per acre on his dry lands. Figures 6,000 acres at one-fourth a ton, if it should sell at $100, the broomcorn crop will be a very valuable one. Mr. Redus says New Mexico's broomcorn is ruined by drought and Oklahoma by floods; and prices ought to remain good but financial stringency may effect the market like it has the other products of the farm.

years was president of the Y. M. C. A. of Houston.

In memory of Ross Shaw, Jr., who died in 1924, Mr. Sterling gave the Y. M. C. A. of South Texas a beautiful wooded camp on Galveston Bay. Recently he purchased 100 acres of the old Sam Houston homestead, adjoining this camp, for donation to the State of Texas as a park.

Governor Dan Moody appointed Mr. Sterling chairman of the state highway commission early in 1927. He and his colleagues, Commissioners Cone Johnson of Tyler and W. R. Ely of Abilene, reorganized the department, sponsored an increase in the gasoline tax, and for the past three and a half years have carried on an intensive program of highway construction and maintenance.

Toss Sterling is a member of the South End Christian Church of Houston, and a trustee of Texas Christian University of Fort Worth. He is a member of the Masonic, Knights of Pythias and Woodmen of the World lodges.

Having achieved success in all his private and public endeavors, Mr. Sterling became a candidate for governor through an expressed desire to be of further service to his state; declaring that state progress and growth demands a business-like administration of the state's affairs, and that the man best fitted to give such an administration and meet the demand of the changing times should be elected.

He advocates relieving the counties of financial responsibility for building state highways, and believes the people should be given an opportunity to decide at the polls whether they want a state bond issue, to be retired wholly with proceeds of a motor fuel tax. He proposes the refunding to counties of money already spent on state highways, as a means of lifting the heavy burden of county road taxes, and developing a system of later roads.

His platform pledges constructive and progressive executive efforts toward equalizing the tax burden, to the end that the small-farm, ranch and home owner be relieved and mineral wealth may bear its just share of taxation.

He proposes a modernization of the prison system, useful employment of prisoners, and segregation of youthful offenders.

Mr. Sterling promises hearty support of the rural and urban schools and the colleges of Texas.

A lifelong prohibitionist and total abstainer, he promises vigorous enforcement of the dry laws and all other laws.

He would give earnest attention, if elected, to problems of labor, electromagnesian institutions, agriculture, conservation of natural resources, judicial reform, regulation of public utilities, and department efficiency.

Finally, he pledges his utmost efforts to end factional strife in Texas Democracy, and to restore harmony.

entrance of Roosevelt high school as a memorial to John Davey, father of tree surgery.

A cavity nearly a foot deep was cut in the trunk of the tree and in the niche so formed was placed a copy of his book, "The Tree Doctor"—the book which made known his conception of a new science.

The cavity was then filled with sectional concrete according to the principles which Davey originated. The wound will start to heal immediately. Bark will creep over it and in time all traces of the "operation" will disappear.

THE VALUE OF SOUND DESIGN

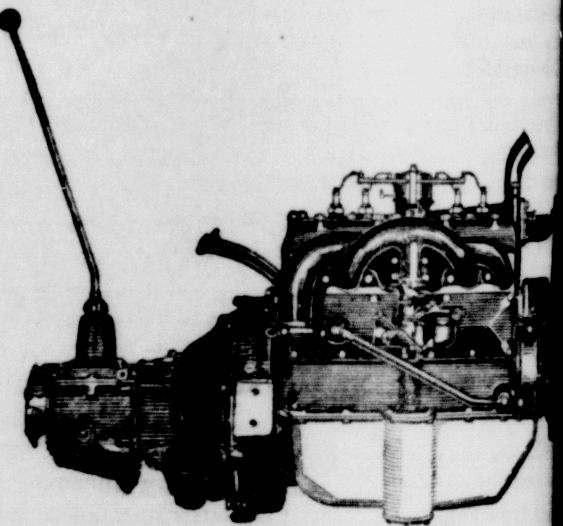

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE good performance of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

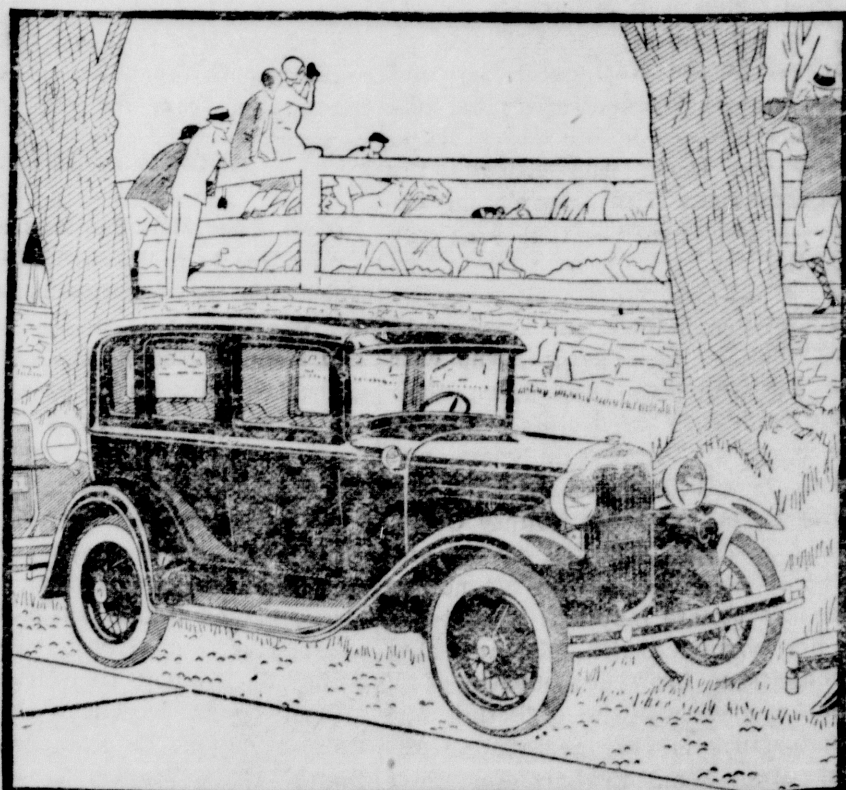

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance. Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, the simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

her foot from the stirrup, and, rushing down, threw her arms about his neck. "I must go," she said. "I must go. We must both go and forget."

And Dennison Grant continued his way down the valley while Zen rode back to the Y.D., wondering if she could ever forget.

CHAPTER IX

Linder scratched his tousled brown hair reflectively as he gazed after the retreating form of Transley. His hat was off, and the perspiration stood on his sunburned face—a face which, in point of handsomeness, needed make no apology to Transley.

"Well, by thunder!" said Linder; "by thunder, think of that!"

Linder stood for some time, thinking "of that" as deeply as his somewhat disorganized mental state would permit. For Transley had announced, with his usual directness, that he wanted so many men and teams for a house excavation in the most exclusive part of the city. So far they had been building in the cheaper districts a cheap type of house for those who, having little capital, are the easier deprived of what they have. The shift in operations caused Linder to lift his eyebrows.

Transley laughed boyishly and clapped a palm on his shoulder.

"I may as well make you wise, Linder," he said. "We're going to build a house for Mr. and Mrs. Transley."

"Missus?" Linder echoed, incredulously.

CUTWORMS FEED AT NIGHT.

Cutworms take unfair advantage of the home garden and carry on their depredations at night, and sometimes on dark, cloudy days. Investigation of the soil close to injured plants, however, will often disclose the guilty worms hiding in small burrows. It is easy to get rid of them by a poisoned bait, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends this one: Mix 5 pounds of dry bran and 1/4 pound of Paris green, stirring very thoroughly. Mix 1 pint of syrup or molasses with 3 or 4 quarts of water and add this solution to the bran and poison, stirring the whole mixture constantly and slowly. Add only enough water to make a crumbly mash. Put the bait around late in the evening so that it will not dry too much before the worms come to feed. It can be broadcast or sown by hand along the rows or about the base of the plants. Many kinds of cut worms overwinter in the soil and begin to work early in the spring; therefore early treatments before the crops are planted, or before they come up, will be of great advantage in the prevention of crop damage by these pests.

Say what you please, there is nothing that mellows leaf tobacco like ageing in wooden casks for two years or more.

If you roll your own, you'll find in every tin of VELVET the makings of about 50 of the best cigarettes you ever smoked. VELVET tobacco is made and cut just exactly right for rolling.

SOUTHWEST TEXAS DISTRICT AGRICULTURAL ENCAMPMENT.

This encampment is primarily educational. The county agents of the Southwest District have planned this event to fit the needs of the farmer of the Southwest and his family. The agents believe that this encampment will serve to acquaint the people of this section with their Agricultural College and the great work it is engaged in; that it will prove an outlet for farm folks, combining pleasure with education; and that it will inspire those who attend with a fresh determination to make their respective communities and their individual farms the best place in the world to live.

The encampment will be held at the Montgomery ranch in a beautiful green grove on the Medina river, 18 miles west of San Antonio, just 2 miles south of the Castroville road. It is free to all. Camping sites for a large crowd have been provided in the green grove on the Medina river, with wood, water and tables furnished. Every family is expected to bring a tent or wagon sheet for protection. A large dressing tent is available for ladies and girls. Those wishing coats and tents should notify Fred W. Gally, Court House, San Antonio. Everyone is expected to bring his own bedding.

A short order restaurant and a commissary for the purchase of groceries, meat, milk, ice, etc. will be run at reasonable prices.

The boys will be supervised in their work and play by various county agents, and the girls by the home demonstration agents and Y. W. C. workers. No parent need hesitate sending his boy or girl to this camp unaccompanied.

The program will consist of six hours instruction daily for adults and four hours for boys and girls. There will be a crop course for the men and for the boys; and a livestock course for each. Any individual may choose either one or the other or may mix the two to suit himself. In a similar way there will be a course for the women and another for the girls. Wholesome sports will feature the boys and girls' program.

At night agricultural and other living pictures will be shown. They are, of course free to all. Those attending the camp will be expected to comply with all regulations relative to the program of work and recreation, as well as sanitation, and the care for meals. County agents will be expected to look after the welfare of people from their respective counties and assist them in making themselves comfortable at the camp.

MEXICO CITY TO CHICAGO RUN MADE BY CHEVROLET IN 138 RUNNING HOURS.

An outstanding achievement of the current motoring season was recorded recently with the arrival of J. M. Griffith from Mexico City, in 138 hours of running time, in a 1922 Chevrolet touring car with five passengers.

Although nearing 64, Mr. Griffith drove every inch of the distance himself. After stopping off at Chicago two weeks, he proceeded to Detroit where he inspected several automobile plants and the General Motors proving ground, and then was impatient to be off on the long trek home to resume his occupation as mechanical engineer.

Leaving Mexico City on April 30, the party covered the 929 miles to the border, crossed at Laredo, and proceeded to Chicago and Detroit with no mishaps other than two stopovers, one for repairs and one, at San Antonio, for carbon removal and replacement of three exhaust valves in the eight-year-old car. The log of the trip as reported by Mr. Griffith, provides statistics of interest to those contemplating a lengthy tour this summer:

Distance (Mexico City to Chicago) 2,514 miles; running time, 137.5 average speed, 18.28 miles per hour; gasoline consumption, 96.6 gallons; motor oil, 26; cost of gasoline, $3.75; oil and greasing, $6.25; repairs to car, including tire repairs, $11.50. The total cost of transportation, exclusive of meals, hotel expenses and personal items, was $51.50, or at the rate of one-third cent a mile for each person in the car.

Despite the age of his Chevrolet, Mr. Griffith said that he started on the tour with no doubt as to the venerable old-timer's ability to cover the distance without trouble. In driving around Mexico City, prior to the start of the tour, the car was constantly being called upon to climb mountain passes up to 12,000 feet.

The speedometer had registered 28,000 kilometers before leaving Mexico. After spending several days here, following his return from Detroit, Mr. Griffith nosed his car toward the South, and started out on return trip as nonchalantly as though his destination were only a few miles out of town or his car were a new 1930 six cylinder model.

COTTON ROTATION AND CULTIVATION.

By Walter B. Remley,

Cotton, like any other crop, does best in a rotation. When grown on the same ground year after year, it is more subject to insect and disease ravages, because the soil becomes infested. The soil fertility is also gradually lowered so that the cotton yield is decreased from year to year. There are countries, however, where cotton is a perennial and as many as four crops are taken from one planting in as many different seasons. After each crop the stalks are cut and removed and the plants sprout up again making another crop. The yield of each succeeding season is a little less than that of the original crop, but the difference is not enough to warrant a new planting.

According to Bulletin No. 43 of the Arizona College of Agriculture a rotation which has been highly satisfactory in Turkestan, an old cotton producing country, has been: Cotton, two years; corn, followed by a green manure crop such as cowpeas or tepary beans, one year; barley followed by a green manure crop, one year; cotton, one year, and alfalfa three years. It is generally necessary to keep cotton growing lands in soil building crops approximately half of the time.

After the planting is done if we will harrow the field just as the plants are coming up, millions of young weed roots will be turned up to the sun and killed. A mulch is also restored which conserves the soil moisture.

The tendency has been toward spacing of the plants in the row generally eight to 12 inches. Spacing may be closer on poorer land than on fertile as the plants do not grow so large and consequently do not crowd each other. It is now possible with the more modern planters, to properly space cotton when planting so that little chopping or thinning is necessary. But where it does have to be done it is best to do it early just as the second set of leaves are appearing when the plants are three or four inches high.

If the rows are the proper distance apart, the regular corn cultivator can most conveniently be used. As the primary purpose in cultivating is to keep down grass and weeds which would otherwise draw on the food and moisture supply, it should be thorough and often—once every week during the growing season is a good practice. Keeping the soil stirred by frequent cultivation also conserves the soil moisture which though of secondary importance, is also a desirable result. We can cultivate deep and close to the cotton plants, throwing a little dirt up around the plants, the first time over the crop. The use of weedeaters or gopher plows makes shallow cultivation easy. By shallow cultivation the growth of a healthy extensive root system is unimpeded, which promotes hardiness, thrift and yield, while deep cultivation throughout the season cuts and tears the roots retarding the growth and thriftiness of the plants and consequently seriously reducing the yield.

KAFIR GOOD DRY FARMING CROP.

By Edgar W. Cooley,
Agricultural Extension Department,
International Harvester Company.

Corn can be grown in Kansas, Oklahoma and other states in the semi-arid sections of the country and there are very good reasons why a certain amount of corn should be grown in each of those states.

But efforts to grow corn extensively in such states in preference to dry farming crops have cost the farmers hundreds of millions of dollars.

Figures compiled by the Kansas State Board of Agriculture covering the eighteen-year period beginning with 1901 and ending with 1918, showed that the average value per acre of corn each year was $9.54, while the average acre value of Kafir was $12.93. In 1918 the acre value of Kafir in Kansas was $23.54 and that of corn was $10.34. There have been years when the acre value of corn was a little greater than that of Kafir, but in 14 out of 18 years the difference in favor of Kafir was from 50 cents to $13 an acre.

In 1917 over 9,000,000 acres were planted to corn in Kansas. The average acre value was $13.16, the acre value of Kafir was $22.19. If the corn acreage had been planted to Kafir the crop would have been worth $82,700,000 more than the value of the corn. In 1918 the growing of Kafir on the acreage devoted to corn would have yielded over $81,700,000 more than the corn did.

These facts, presented by the State Board of Agriculture, should be given careful consideration by the farmers of Kansas. It is no doubt true that similar figures could be shown for Oklahoma and other states in the semi-arid sections.

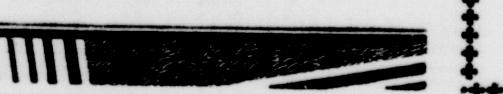

It is both expensive and discouraging to plant a large acreage to corn when conditions are not favorable. It is not good business to continue growing corn in preference to dry farming crops when experience shows that Kafir or similar crops will pay much better.

This new Kelly 4.75-19 F.C. tire, especially designed for hard service on Fords and Chevrolets, is one-third of an inch larger in cross-section than the regular 4.75-19 and one-third of an inch higher in standing diameter.

It has more air-space, which means easier riding. It has more rubber, which means longer wear. The tread is extended so that it affords more protection against curb-scraping and sidewall chafing. It also increases the non-skid qualities of the tire.

Stand one of these new Kelly tires alongside a similar marked size of a competitive make and you can see the difference at a glance. This is the biggest, handsomest, easiest-riding, longest-lived tire the Ford or Chevrolet owner has ever had a chance to buy.

HONDO, TEXAS, JULY 4, 1930

A STATEWIDE INDUSTRIAL PROGRAM.

The time has come when Texas must think about repairing and reinforcing the foundations upon which she builds her prosperity. Heretofore she has relied almost exclusively upon agriculture, but she has grown too populous to impose so great a burden upon one form of industry. Moreover, agriculture itself is beset with a multitude of ills and is in poor condition to carry an ever-increasing load.

Too much dependence upon agriculture has placed Texas at considerable disadvantage in the economic competitions between the states. A natural wealth so great as to be almost incomprehensible has carried her into the fore ranks, it is true; but where might she be had she properly balanced and diversified the production of field and factory.

Cotton, for instance, has been the nucleus about which Texas built a system of splendid deep-water ports. Cotton in bales, cotton-seed oil and cotton-seed cake have comprised the major items of Texas commerce. The cotton crop, however, fluctuates widely; this year there may be an enormous production, next year a comparative failure. In consequence, activity of Texas ports has been topsy-turvy, and shipping has been preponderantly of the "tramp" variety.

A statewide industrial program therefore appears necessary and desirable from many viewpoints. Not only would it relieve agriculture of a burden which has become unbearable, but it would provide Texas ports with a steady flow of varied import and export cargo. Industrial payrolls would tend to fill the valleys which now characterize Texas business graphs, and if the peaks were leveled a little in the process no harm would result.

A well-balanced program of industrialization would stimulate prosperity in remarkable degree. Indeed, because it would provide new, strong markets for agricultural products, industry might prove to be the very remedy for agriculture's ills.

That the future prosperity of the state depends upon such a program of industrial expansion and development, most Texas editors agree. This agreement does not extend, however, to the ways and means by which that development and expansion should be fostered.

Recent newspaper editorials have emphasized the fact that Texas possesses or produced raw materials sufficient to maintain a gigantic manufacturing industry. More than that, she has also an abundance of cheap fuel with which to turn the factory wheels. The latter fact is brought home to us by an announcement of the fact that Texas gas is being piped to the Chicago industrial area.

In this connection, it is difficult to justify the logic which ships Texas raw materials to Chicago and pipes Texas gas to Chicago, only to manufacture products which are promptly returned to Texas for purchase and consumption. In point of fact, there is no economic justification for such a condition. That it persists is due to our toleration of an economic absurdity—an absurdity for which Texas pays an "unconscionable" price.

Probably no commonwealth in the Union enjoys such a happy combination of industrial advantages as does Texas. On the other hand it is quite as probable that no state has made so little effective use of such advantages.

To the problem there seems to be but one answer. Texas should create, either by voluntary association or by official appointment, an industrial board to discover, identify and broadcast to the world the industrial opportunities which lie hidden within the state.

Some time ago such a program was suggested by the Dallas News. Though commented upon with much favor by other Texas newspapers and magazines, it was never accorded recognition at Austin. Today, even more than at the time the Dallas newspaper voiced the suggestion, Texas should welcome the benefits which accrue from some such program. Texas needs the uniform, consistent and uninterrupted prosperity which would result therefrom.

That Texans have become "industrial minded" is quite beyond dispute; and, peculiarly enough, industry has become more or less "Texas minded." If we would achieve our desires and become genuinely prosperous again, it is necessary only to organize; and that, too, seems simple enough.

Why not begin by organizing a competent, effective industrial board?

MORE GOOD FOLKS SHOW THEIR INTEREST IN SCOUTING.

We were informed that the Western Metal Manufacturing Company of San Antonio was glad to contribute half the value of the 30 feet of corrugated road culvert, to be used as well curbing, Lewis-Patten Company having contributed the other half.

The Southern Motors freighted this out from San Antonio without cost to the Scouts, and our good friend and commissioner, G. G. Collenbach, made possible the transportation of this material to the camp site near Barksdale.

The folks in the upper Nueces Canyon are showing their interest in the camp in a very unique, as well as substantial way. At a community meeting last week, several talks by both visitors and home folks convinced everyone that the camp site will prove a great asset to the community, and its usefulness will grow with the years.

The suggestion of B. J. Stewart, Edwards County Attorney, that the folks of Barksdale and surrounding communities "raise gravel and sand" instead of trying to raise money met with the approval of all, and plans were worked out immediately for every man and boy, that possibly could, to meet at the camp site Monday of this week with either a truck or a shovel, as a pass to the camp site. After hauling gravel, to be used in the construction at the camp site, all morning, the good mothers and young ladies came to the rescue and spread an old time basket lunch under some large pecan trees, near the river. After this splendid basket lunch of fried chicken, lamb, roast beef, salads, vegetables, cakes and pies, there were some informal after dinner talks. It was a big day, and many truck loads of gravel and sand were hauled to the location of the new mess hall and kitchen the foundation of which has already been excavated.

The well has been fixed in such a way that the drinking water cannot possibly be contaminated. Mr. Albert Nelson was kind enough to furnish us with a pump jack and a gas engine for the summer without rental cost.

Mr. Louis Woolridge, a very efficient carpenter and builder of Camp Wood is in charge at the camp site. Scout Executive Palmer is spending as much time as possible with the men, planning the construction of the sanitary system, the 80 by 40 kitchen and mess hall.

Camp Chairman V. A. Brown has advised us to go slow and not become involved too heavily, but we feel sure that Mr. T. N. Picot, a member of the Camp Committee, and President of the Winter Garden Chamber of Commerce, will, in his efficient manner, raise the necessary funds to pay for the labor and the roof of this building, as all other materials will have been donated by interested firms.

The San Antonio Portland Cement Company sent us the bill of lading for 528 sacks of cement, and the car is being unloaded at Camp Wood absolutely without cost. With the cement we hope to build a real monument to these people and all the others that have made possible the purchase of this 300 acre tract and the construction of these buildings.

My! But it is fine to live in a section of the State, where folks do things for their young people, who build character and train them to be good citizens.

The Finance Committee of Uvalde has given most every individual and business firm in the city an opportunity to have a part in our program. Everyone received the committee very courteously, and almost without an exception, made a pledge of some amount, ranging from $100.00 to $1.00. The list is being arranged and a few others are yet to be seen. Then we expect to acknowledge these contributions from everyone by publishing the list.

Hurrah for Scouting in Southwest Texas!

the hair-trigger type rather than the conventional notion of the "constructive" variety. Nobody ever caught him with his head in his hands or gazing off into space thinking deep thoughts. His forte is making legislation on the floor. When a "break" comes, this quick-witted horse-trader instantly seizes the opportunity to shape the legislation to his liking. One of these "breaks" came during the consideration of the tax bill in 1924. Garner took advantage of it and rewrote 90 per cent of the bill, which released 1,500,000 citizens from Federal income taxes, over the protest of Secretary Mellon.

Since arriving at his full legislative stature, Garner has been a minority member and leader in the House and has had no opportunity as a "constructive" statesman. But if the opportunity comes, the qualities which made him an able general on the attack should stand him in good stead. He could be counted upon at all times to down the opposition with an offensive drive.

One of the truly remarkable things about Garner's success as minority leader is the fact that he is a protectionist on raw materials and differs in that respect from four-fifths of his party. Back in the dim days when all Democrats were supposed to be free traders, Garner got a tariff on mohair for the folks in his district, which is the largest producer of mohair goats extant.

When the Underwood tariff bill was reported, with a 10 per cent rate on mohair and none on wool, J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, then the poet laureate of the House, composed a doggerel ditty entitled, "Garner's Goat of Texas." To which Garner replied in kind:

"Hammy Moore is a helava pote,
He don't know a sheep from a gote."

Right—the tariff is a local issue.

IF IT WERE POSSIBLE TO MAGNIFY A PASTURE.

If it were possible to magnify a pasture several hundred or thousand fold—and all the parasites in the same proportion—so that blades of grass would appear as tall bamboos and small forage plants as great jungle trees, it would be easier to convince livestock growers of the desirability of careful attention to sanitation and of the importance of constant watchfulness in combating the ravages of parasites that live in the pasture and attack the various kinds of livestock.

Such a magnified pasture would stand revealed as a place of life—and of death. Many of the livestock parasites are tenacious of life and are able to withstand the most unfavorable conditions. Yet the great proportion of them die without ever having the opportunity to attack an animal. However, many of these parasites have powers of reproduction and multiplication that seem marvelous. Thousands of immature forms will come from a single adult parasite. Many live through complicated life cycles and may have one or more intermediate hosts on which they live between their attacks on horses, cattle, sheep or swine.

Unlike the jungle hunters, many of the pests in this magnified pasture would seem sluggish and inert—barely alive, perhaps. The stomach worm, that infests the sheep, for example, emerges from the ground and finds a resting place in a tiny curl in a blade of grass. There it remains while the grass develops. If no sheep bites off the grass the stomach worm in time dies. If a sheep crops the grass, the stomach worm enters and becomes active within the sheep's stomach, joins with other stomach worms, and preys on the sheep, which is likely to become unthrifty and unprofitable.

Fortunately for the livestock grower, most of these parasites are able to live and reproduce only when they are able to attack domestic animals of the same or closely related species. The danger from parasite-infested pastures is by no means so great if it is possible to use this year's horse pasture for cattle or sheep next year and for hogs the third.

POISONING THE BOLL WEEVIL

Where the cotton boll weevil is seriously injuring the crop, it will pay to poison it if the land is sufficiently fertile to yield at least one-third of a bale per acre, barring injury by the weevil, says the United States Department of Agriculture. One "presquare" poisoning should be made if the overwintered weevils are unusually abundant. Either calcium-arsenate dust or a mixture of Calcium arsenate and molasses may be used, and the application made just as squares begin to form. Then apply three or more regular dust applications of calcium arsenate at four or five day intervals, beginning when an average of about one-tenth of the squares show weevil punctures. Dusting should be continued as needed to keep the infestation low until a full crop is set and matured beyond the probability of further weevil injury. If a heavy rain falls within 24 hours after any application, it should be repeated immediately.

It is a great proof of talents to be able to recall the mind from the senses, and to separate thought from habit.—Cicero.

Soybeans and cowpeas sown together make a very good mixture for hay or pasture. The yield is usually greater than that of either crop alone, and the curing of the cowpeas is easier because of the presence of the soybean plants. Varieties of the two crops that mature at about the same time should be planned. It is better to have more soybean plants than cowpeas so that the vining cowpeas will have support. From 1 to 1½ bushels of soybeans and ½ to 1 bushel of cowpeas are sown to an acre if seeded in close drills; in 3-foot rows one-half of these amounts is enough. The crop should be cut for hay when the soybeans are one-half to full grown and the first pods of the cowpeas are mature.

Garner: the Hair-Trigger Statesman

Down along the Rio Grande in Texas, when an editor prints a piece in his paper about a citizen's character and standing in the community his neighbors never say that he was "written up," but that he was "no-rated." This quaint but expressive term seems to be a combination of the words notice and rating and means a published estimate or critique. Thus, a man can be "no-rated" as an eminent horse-thief or as a distinguished statesman.

Since there is a possibility that John Nance Garner of Texas, the Democratic leader of the House, may be the next Speaker it seems fitting that he should be "no-rated" at this time. It is more probable, however, that the Republican majority which rode into the House on the Hoover landslide may be cut to a point that will give Garner an opportunity to form a Coalition and thus become the real "majority" leader of the House.

To properly "no-rate" "Two-Gun Jack" Garner and show how this hair-trigger statesman learned to take advantage of a split-second to get the drop on the enemy, it is necessary to start at his beginnings. For his early environment and experiences developed the traits that make him second only to Speaker Longworth as the dominant figure in the House. And if he does become Speaker, these characteristics will make him the "head man" in the House.

Few men ever started out in life with so little and wound up with so much as Garner. He was born, "just a po' boy," in Red River County, Texas, and "raised about ten miles from nowhere." To begin with he had a hickory shirt and a pair of overalls. Now he has garnered a cut-away coat and a million dollars in banks, lands and herds of mohair goats.

At an age when most boys of his time were struggling through McGuffie's First Reader, Garner was a drawer of water and a hewer of wood, a tender of cattle and a herder of sheep. Officially, Garner says he had a "limited education"—eight months in the little red school house completed his scholastic training. Privately, he boasts that he has a sheepskin from the University of Hardknocks. In fact, he has a great scorn for anyone who did not draw his wisdom from the soil.

For Garner believes he owes a great debt to the hardships of his youth in a raw country. Before he reached his "teens," he had developed a sense of responsibility about doing the chores, and self-reliance which begot boldness. Forced to exercise his own judgment to get ahead, his wits became as sharp as a mesquite thorn. Hard work made his body as tough as a pinto pony and gave him his present vigor.

Red River County was a part of the old Confederate South and Garner was born not so long after the Yankee soldiers had been engaged in putting down rebellion in that section ten years after the Civil War. So he learned early to regard Republicans with suspicion. Even now the only thing this intense partisan won't do to a Republican is to lie to him.

In his early 20's, Garner shook the sunburned soil of Red River County from his boots and went into the chaparral along the Rio Grande.

Whether he ever studied law or not is beside the question, but he had the boldness to get himself elected county judge. He probably administered justice like that famous Texas character Judge Roy Bean, known as "The Law West of the Pecos." Bean, was a "hoss-sense" judge. He admitted that he didn't know much law but insisted that he was "just Hell on equity."

Ambition's urge took Garner to the Texas legislature. There he first proposed to divide Texas into five States, which would be permissible under the resolution annexing the Republic of Texas. A great howl went up at the time from sentimental Texans, who had been taught that the Battle of San Jacinto was more important than the surrender at Yorktown. And the plan was dealt a death blow when Senator Joe Bailey sonorously exclaimed: "Who will take the Alamo?"

Garner is sentimental enough about Texas, where "the state pride of the native born yields not to any State." But Garner is practical and a born politician. He has recently revived his project to divide Texas. It is a part of his partisanship, his devotion to the Democratic party and his desire to make it dominant in the Senate.

This proposal has brought the accusation that Garner has his eye on one of the ten Senatorships from a divided Texas. Nothing could be further from his mind. He has set a record of 27 years service in the House, the longest from the State of Texas. And he wants to stay there and become Speaker.

That Garner enjoys power and responsibility was demonstrated when he became minority leader of the House. Unlike his predecessors, when he was elected leader he remained as ranking Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee, which carries with it the chairmanship of the Democratic committee on committees and makes him the real "boss."

Garner "No-Rated."
Now Garner can be "no-rated" about as follows:

As a man, he is a fine fellow and a loyal friend. One of the famous friendships in Congress exists between this diamond in the rough and the polished scion of Cincinnati society, Speaker Longworth, who is a Republican, at that. In a political row, however, a pair of strange bulldogs could not be more ferocious. Life has made Garner hard and practical, yet he spent last summer raising an orphaned family of kittens with an eye-dropper.

As a party leader, Garner is a strict disciplinarian. He has welded the Democratic minority into an aggressive unit and eliminated much of the factional and sectional strife that grew out of the 1928 campaign. He is a splendid parliamentarian and a shrewd tactician. He has never prepared a speech in his life and is one of the best rough-and-tumble debaters in the House. He just leaps to his feet and goes at it in steam-riveter fashion.

As a legislator, he is remarkably competent. And despite his intense partisanship, his viewpoint is broad enough to encompass the welfare of the nation. His mistakes in judgment are made honestly.

HAPPY MOTHER ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT KONJOLA.

Relates How New And Different Medicine Did Wonders for Her Little Boy of Twelve.

HARMON GLAZE.

Results are what count, and Konjola can be counted on for results. Sufferers want relief, not promises. Konjola has made a matchless record simply because it does the things it is designed to do. Take, as a typical example, the case of Harmon Glaze, 12, whose mother, Mrs. Annie Glaze, Route 4, Lonoke near Little Rock, Ark., says:

"My boy, Harmon, 12, had typhoid about five years ago, and his health since then was not good. He frequently had fever and had attacks of nausea. He had no desire to play and his appetite was poor. Nothing I gave him seemed to do any good. Konjola had helped me so much that I decided to give it to Harmon. Today, he is like a different person. He eats, sleeps and plays like other children and is no longer subject to fevers. I am still giving him Konjola for it has done so much for both of us."

So it goes: victory after victory wherever Konjola is given the chance to prove its merits. You can put your faith in Konjola feeling that you will be rewarded abundantly.

Konjola is sold in Hondo, Texas, at W. H. Windrow's Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

MRS. A. C. HUTZLER. IN MEMORY OF OUR DEAR AUNT

A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled, A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled.

Lonely is the place where she used to roam

Sad is the thought to think of her Precious Aunt, who has gone, Yes, left us to return no more.

How we miss her gentle footsteps, Miss each kind and loving word; No more in this lonely household Will her tender voice be heard.

In her lonely silent grave Our dear Aunt now lies After fading from this earth As fades the sun's last rays.

Dead, yes, dead do we call her; Aunt, on must this be you? A flower faded and vanished, A heart that was tender and true.

Though gone but not forgotten And in all the years to come We will live in hopes of meeting On the golden shore above

And so tenderly we've laid her In her cold and silent grave, Where the birds so sweetly warble And the flowers o'er it wave

Safe in the arms of Jesus, Safe on his gentle breast, There by his love o'er shadowed Sweetly her soul shall rest.

Safe in the arms of Jesus, Safe from all corroding care, Safe from the world's temptations, Sin cannot harm her there.

Peaceful be her silent slumber, Peaceful in her grave so low; She no more will join our number And no more our sorrows know.

Yet again we hope to meet her When the day of life is fled And in heaven with joy to greet her Where no farewell tears are shed

Joining our hearts with a golden band We'll meet our dear Aunt in heaven For she is our guide to the shining strand.

So farewell, farewell, dear Aunt; You have only gone before For if we are but as faithful We shall reach the golden shore.

By two nephews, S. H. H. and R. M.

A motion for a change of venue, filed by Grover C. Morris, attorney for Edwards, was approved in Thirty-eighth District court at Boerne Tuesday afternoon. Judge L. J. Brucks approved the motion after Morris and District Attorney K. K. Woodley had agreed that it would be impossible to get another jury in Kendall county following the trial of Young last week, ending in his conviction and a sentence of 50 years in the penitentiary.

Motion for a new trial for Young was overruled by Judge Brucks. The motion was presented by J. F. Hair, attorney for Young.

Chicks of different ages should be raised together. The older will crowd the younger; poorly developed birds will be the result.

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 19 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana, paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts.

"I started taking them every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

"I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 pounds and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 pounds. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

"I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many of my friends, in fact, have a number of them taking Kruschen Salts.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that last four weeks costs but 85c at W. H. Windrow or any drugstore in America.
